At this Edinburgh establishment, customer experiences vary significantly. While some diners appreciate the cleanliness and efficient self-service ordering, others face numerous service issues including forgotten items, incorrect orders, and long wait times for meals. Complaints about cold food and inadequate restroom conditions further diminish the dining experience. Despite a few positive remarks about the food quality, many patrons find the overall standard akin to fast food chains. The need for improved management and service practices is evident, leaving guests disappointed and questioning whether a return visit is worthwhile. For a quick bite post-concert, alternatives might be better suited.
