Nestled in the heart of Edinburgh, this bustling restaurant offers a cozy pub atmosphere complemented by a diverse menu of local dishes and traditional favorites. Diners praise the outstanding fish and chips and the delectable mixed grill, often highlighting the friendly and efficient service. While the food is consistently excellent, some guests note that service can be slow, with waits of up to an hour. However, the attentive management, particularly on busy nights, leaves a positive impression. Reservations are recommended for a smoother experience, but many leave eager to return for another enjoyable meal amidst the vibrant ambiance.
